In quick succession, two notable titles begin their campaigns; Jumping Jack and Get Your Own Appare. Gaming on Android is often hit and miss. With games arriving constantly from developers everywhere, finding the good ones is a challenge. Often, they're just regular games made by developers from the Google Play store that require little in terms of polish. As is frequently the case in this genre, the mobile game versions of some of the desktop titles often pale in comparison to the original. The other thing that the titles bring to the table is that they are innovative in terms of gameplay
