AutoCAD Civil.Q: ActiveRecord::Relation#to_sql performance Is it possible to get the SQL generated by ActiveRecord::Relation#to_sql? Using a combination of SET NAMES utf8 and DUMP sql (via DEBUGGER) I can get SQL output, but I'm looking for the generated SQL. A: To avoid SQL injection (if you're going to output the query) you could use sql_exec instead of to_sql. In your case you would do something like products = Product.all.sql_exec('DUMP') This is a little less efficient than just using to_sql, but it is safe to use.

I should also mention that db/schema.rb will be an empty file until you execute the ActiveRecord::Base.schema_format = :sql option in environment.rb Space trees Space trees is a subgenre of science fiction and fantasy stories that explores the idea of space trees, a story, setting, or literary device in which a tree or other plant is described in such a way as to suggest that it is the dominant figure of its environment or a major element of it, in a manner analogous to the idea of cities being described as a tree, or civilizations as a tree, as though an organic entity with its own intelligence and function. The concept of a tree as something that stands in for a civilization, city, or city-state is not unique to space stories. The ancient Greeks also conceived of a three-tiered universe, and used the metaphor of a cosmic tree in their myths. The mythographer Joseph Campbell used the concept as part of a series of stories called the Tree of Life, which also explores the concept of a Civilization as a Cosmic Tree. The concept of a tree as a metaphor for a civilization is also explored in the science fiction of H. G. Wells. Examples 0cc13bf012

The triangle appears at a fixed location at the top left of the screen. I want to be able to move the triangle around the screen. How can I achieve this? A: You can just translate the camera while rendering. In your draw method: ... var position = new THREE.Vector3(0,0,0); camera.position.set(position.x, position.y, position.z); ... three.js r69 Archive for September, 2010 I had an interesting experience yesterday which I'm trying to wrap my head around. Basically I was off-line all day yesterday. I had sat down, checked my email, then got up to pick up some groceries...called everyone...and forgot to go online. Not worried because I just had my other phone on wifi, but just curious if I would lose any of my stuff or how much. I found the backup in the cloud
